SAYS BRIDE THRASHED HIM; WANTS DIVORCE

Declaring that his "better half" too frequently displayed her right by superior physical might, and naming dates on which she cudgeled him with clubs, and her shoe and even finally dragged him around the house by the hair of his head, L. Steinberg has applied to the circuit court for relief, in the form of a divorce.

His petition says that they were married Feb. 6, 1912, and then proceeds to the narration of a sorrowful tale, of how Mrs. Lena Steinberg began "benching" in her forceful manner almost before the end of the honeymoon, by attacking him with a stick of wood on April 1, All Fools' day. He faced the height of indignities, he asserts, on September 9, when she caught him by the hair and dragged him about the house. He now begs the privilege of returning to the joys of single blessedness and bachelorhood.

WILL DISCUSS ROADS AS MEASURE FOR HEALTH

At the meeting of the Civic Federation next Wednesday at four o'clock, Senator A. F. Judd will read an important paper of which the topic will be "Sanitation Roads." An extensive study of the relationship between roads and community health has been made by Mr. Judd, and he has much to offer the men of Honolulu as arguments for action at the coming Legislature necessary. The meeting will be held in the rooms of the Public Service Association, on King Street, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. The question of building sanitation roads will be brought before the Legislature and Mr. Judd will be a staunch advocate of the plan.

EASILY REMEMBERED.

He—I haven't the heart to kiss you.
She—Well, take mine.—U.K.
